Volume 11, Issue 3
MARCH 2011

The Official Publication of the Marina West Yacht Club, 14900 W. Hwy. 12 at Tower Park, Lodi, CA

From the Commodore, Ken Dretzka

Many MWYC members attended the installation of our member Linda Breninger as Commodore of PICYA the last weekend in January. A great time was had by all at this very impressive “black tie” affair. The installation came off without a hitch and Linda looked downright stunning. Her escort, David, didn’t look all bad either. A great meal was served; enjoyable music came from an outstanding band which, of course, led to dancing into the night.

Meanwhile, back at the MWYC Clubhouse, the Village West Yacht Club came over and visited. But, no worries, Lynn, with help from Warren, Wendy, Joe, Connie, Doc, Christi, Cliff, Ben and Jeff pulled off yet another successful Cruise In. All working so hard as many of us wine and dined in Berkeley...

This year’s annual MWYC crab feed was exceptionally well attended with nearly two-hundred people chowing down on absolutely unbelievably scrumptious crab. Not only did we all have a great time, we also made a little money along the way. Thanks go to all who donated the great gifts for the silent auction and raffle and also to all the folks in helping with the set up and break down. What a team we are!

The Wine & Chocolate festival in Lodi was fantabulous! Candy Calloway outdid herself as all her plans seemed to crash but everything still ended coming successfully back together. The very lucky Marina West, Oxbow and Driftwood Yacht Club members who opted to sign up were taken to a total of . . . Continued on Page 4

From the Vice Commodore Ron Harper

What a grand Crab feed! It seems better each year, if that is possible, great food, sprightly service, and good company. This was not only a financial success but also 3 new potential members recruited!

Sorry I missed the super bowl party, but was perfecting my chili recipe for the Sept cook off contest. All you cooks better start experimenting now if you think you can beat me!

By the time you read this the Valentine’s Fest will be history, but promises to be a good one not to miss, with 2 clubs cruising in. Remember the secret to our clubs success is the camaraderie that we exemplify at these events; so be sure to mingle with our guests. We need to continue growing for our financial health.

I shall be attending the PICYA leadership conference this month, hopefully to pick up some pointers for our club.

Look over March’s Schedule we have a wealth of activities planned. Come on down!

Greetings to all you real Irishmen and to all of our "Once A Year Honorary Irish men.

The next General Meeting is one day after the real day, March 18th. Hope you will all join in for a great meal and General Meeting.

Please send your reservations to attend, the price is $12.50, and Jack Michael has offered to cook his famous chicken on the BBQ. Of course, we will have other items to compliment the entrée, just haven't made a decision at press time as to what else will be served.

RSVP to Lynn @ lynnehahn@comcast.net or (209) 477-7653 no later than March 15th.

DELTA CHAMBER MIXER, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 9TH @ MWYC

Please come and join in the festivities. For MWYC Members, arrival time 5:15 and bring an appetizer. The event is held from 6:00 to 7:30, but I need you and your appetizers there early so we can all meet and greet. (Usually there are 50—70 People in attendance.)

Please call or e-mail and let me know if you are attending, sure don't want egg on my face, with no members in attendance and no appetizers!!!!

Thank You again MWYC Members, I know you will all make us look really good!!!

Acting Port Captain, Ed Stetson

The Yacht Club Docks are always available for members use. If you want to bring your boat to the club for the weekend, or just for a day, it is important that you contact the Port Captain by email ed.griffin@yahoo.com , or by phone at 209 992-8073 so we can make sure we have adequate docking. Remember, the visiting club and their hosts have priority on our docks for cruise ins.

nine different wineries where a whole lot of wine was consumed and pounds of chocolate were sampled along with way too many hors d'oeuvres. We even had a DJ help finish us off after a wonderful lasagna dinner at our Clubhouse. Did we ever have a fun time!

On Sunday of that same weekend, the I.O.B.G. had their New Member Induction Meeting at our Clubhouse. After their meeting, our very own Jeff Rose prepared enough hamburgers and hot dogs to feed seventy-two hungry people. And what a great job he did!

We had such a good time with all the Sea Ray Club members during their Cruise In to our Club President's Day Weekend. They kept us in stitches while we kept their tummies full with super meals prepared by Ben & Robin Penn with a little help from their friends Ed & Bonnie. Besides being about a half a bubble off, these SeaRay people really know how to have a good time! We're already looking forward to their next visit.

We've started off this year with a very fun but busy two months at the MWYC. Thanks to all who have and will help make this year what looks to be a great success.

P.I.C.Y.A. Report—Jack Michael, SC—Delegate

The first Delegates Meeting of the year was held on February 7, 2011 at Coyote Point Yacht Club. Staff Commodore/PICYA Sgt.-At-Arms Stetson and Director Bonnie, Richard and Joan Hardy, and Mary Lee and I attended. We gave a report on our very successful Crab Feed and invited all to consider cruising in to MWYC, with open dates available in the third and fourth quarter of the year. The March Delegates Meeting will be on Monday, the 7th, at the Half Moon Bay YC. Let me know if you would like to attend one of these meetings during the year. The dinners are usually very good, and sometimes excellent, and getting to know other clubs and members from all over Northern California is really enjoyable.

Thank you to Commodore Dretzka and Judy, the Stetsons, Fields, Calloways, Marshs, Michaels and Dave Breninger for attending the very successful installation of Linda Breninger as PICYA Commodore. It was a great event that nearly 200 attended at the DoubleTree at Berkeley Marina. We all had fun dancing and partying! Congratulations, Linda!!

The PICYA Leadership Conference was held on February 26 at the Golden Gate YC. Although this report is being written prior to the Conference, there is a great contingent of MWYC members planning to attend.

The PICYA Opening Day on the Bay will be May 1, this year. Although the traditional "Opening Day on the Bay" is the last Sunday in April, it was changed this year due to Easter falling on that day. If you are interested in viewing the parade from the PICYA Committee Boat let me, Ed, or Linda know and we can help you with reservations, or you can go to picya.org and make your reservations. The day includes a continental breakfast, a buffet lunch, ring side seat for the Parade, and a beautiful day on a large Hornblower Yacht on The Bay; and all for just $75 per person if you make your reservation by April 1, 2011. We had a great time last year on this Hornblower cruise!

R.B.O.C. Report, Jack Michael SC, R.B.O.C. Vice President-North

It will be a very busy year if the past few weeks are any indication! With the many studies underway regarding the Delta habitat and improved water resources, the financial issues facing the State, and the introduction of the many bills that occurs at the beginning of a new Legislative Session, your RBOC Directors are working overtime to protect your interests.

So far, boater's dollars have not become any real focus in the budget discussions except to be raised as a possible source of funding if the tax extensions contained in Governor Brown's proposed budget solution are not approved by the voters. We are still reviewing all of the bills introduced, and will be developing positions on them during March. However, one bill has jumped out at us that was introduced on February 18, which was the deadline for bill introduction. It is SB 623 (Kehoe) and would prohibit the manufacture, sale, or distribution, in California, of marine antifouling paints that contain copper. Senator Kehoe is from San Diego and the bill appears to result from the studies conducted by the San Diego Port Authority as required by the State Water Resources Control Board and the US EPA. We have some issues with their studies and are working with Senator Kehoe. RBOC has a good working relationship with the Senator, but we will likely need all of your help on this issue.

I am RBOC's representative on the California Energy Commission's Technical Advisory Committee for their Alternative and Renewable Fuel and Vehicle Technology Program which is now in the process of finalizing the types of projects for which they will entertain funding for the 2011-12 funding cycle. We are trying to get some funding for detailed studies on the impact of ethanol use in marine engines. As you know, from the very limited studies that have been conducted, ethanol and marine engines don't mix well, so to speak.

RBOC will also be holding its annual Legislative Day and Board Meeting in Sacramento on April 5 and 6. We will be setting our Legislative Program at that meeting. Also, RBOC is offering a Delta Tour for the Directors on April 7 to learn more about the Delta, particularly for the southern Directors. We don't know at this writing if there is enough interest from the Directors to make this tour a reality, but in the planning stage, MWYC has arranged for overnight accommodations in the KOA Tower Park Resort and food and drink in our clubhouse the evening of April 6 and morning of April 7. I may be asking your help to make this a memorable event for your RBOC Directors.

I will do my best to keep you up to date on the issues that will be most important to you, and ask that you keep me current on your concerns. Please stay tuned!

Free Government Resources

The Government Makes Free Navigation Resources Available, if You Know Where to Look.

Excerpted from “Mad Mariner” by permission

Updated July 22, 2008

March Safety Report – By Ed Stetson

"Free" is not a term you often associate with boating. But the U.S. government does indeed provide boaters with a great deal of material – much of at no charge – if you know where to look.

Uncle Sam's best-known free marine resource is probably electronic navigation charts. The U.S. government stands alone among nations, offering charts in both raster and vector formats for download at no charge. Other countries, such as Canada, still charge boaters to obtain their charts.

But charts are not the only resource offered by the government. Uncle Sam also offers lists of corrections to keep your charts up to date and Coast Pilots to let you know what to expect. Using these tools together with your charts will give you a great deal of valuable information about the waters you travel.

Of course, there are stores that will charge you for these same publications. But the information is available free to anyone with an Internet connection and some time – again, if you know where to look.

NOTICE TO MARINERS

Two important resources are the Notice to Mariners and the Local Notice to Mariners. All charts, even the electronic ones, have a publication date. This is the date that the chart was "locked in." Anything that changes after that date has to be changed by hand – by you – to keep the chart up to date.

These changes can be as simple as a buoy that has been temporarily removed for maintenance or as sophisticated as the addition of a new channel. For the chart to be considered "legal," it has to be updated, especially if you are a licensed captain who carries paying passengers.

The U.S. Coast Guard is one of the agencies responsible for keeping track of all the changes on charts and notifying mariners of those changes. To do this, the government produces two sets of documents, known as the Notice to Mariners and the Local Notice to Mariners. They are posted electronically.

A Local Notice to Mariners is published for each of the nine Coast Guard districts. If your boating is confined to a single area, you can sign up for the local notice of just that district. The local notices are the first published source of changes to charts and related publications. The notice system is also used for notifications about outages to GPS satellites, changes in technical specifications and even information about important events that might affect boating traffic.

Information on the Local Notice to Mariners can be found at the Coast Guard's website, and you can use this site to download the most recent local notices in a PDF format (this makes them searchable, by the way). You can also sign up to be notified via email as new notices become available. Again, this is all free.

The Notice to Mariners, also published on a weekly basis, covers the entire collection of U.S. nautical publications and are not restricted to a specific location. It is designed to be used by oceangoing vessels and may not always have corrections for charts that are inland of the major bays and sounds. In the past, information generally was published first in the Local Notice to Mariners and then was added to the Notice to Mariners, but with the advent of electronic databases and online dissemination, that's not always the case anymore.

Because the Notice to Mariners is published by the National Geospatial-Intelligence Agency, based on information prepared jointly by the Coast Guard and NOAA's National Ocean Service, they are available from the NGA website, also in PDF format. Because of the size of the notices, they can be downloaded as a single file or in smaller subsections as needed. Generally, it's advisable to read all of the notices online before deciding what to download and store.

The Notice to Mariners is not limited to U.S. charts and navigational publications. More than 60 countries produce nautical charts and use some form of publication to keep them updated. Canada, Great Britain and most of the European countries have some form of online distribution.

LIGHT LISTS

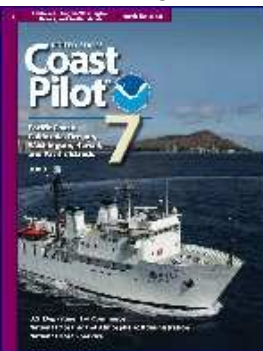

Most nautical charts contain a great deal of information about lighthouses and buoys, but some information is just too involved to print on a chart. Information about light sectors, periods of reduced intensity or removal, as well as a description of the light's physical structure, often have to be left off. However, the Coast Guard produces a companion publication for each set of charts, called the U.S. Light Lists, which includes all of this information and more. The Light Lists are organized geographically and go through the lights in a linear fashion, so if you can find one light, the ones above and below it on the list are usually nearby.

The back section of the lists also includes an alphabetical index, so if you know the name but not the location of a light, you can use the index to guide you to the proper section. The Light Lists also give the latitude and longitude of major lights, making it easier to find them on the charts. Finally, the Light Lists contain facts on the structure of U.S. lights, a guide to abbreviations and information on figuring out how far a light can be seen in various atmospheric conditions. Again, all free, free, free.

The Light Lists are available online on the Coast Guard's website, and are generally updated annually. Lists are kept current using the information in each Local Notice to Mariners and the Notice to Mariners. It is easiest to download the entire Light List for the area you are interested in and then print out the pages pertaining to the charts you are using. This is especially helpful if you will be visiting a new area and you want to have the most recent information for that area.

COAST PILOTS

While the Light Lists provide very specific information about navigational lights, the U.S. Coast Pilots offer a much larger amount of information about an area, a body of water or rules that might affect your travels.

Coast Pilots are also organized geographically and are generally numbered counterclockwise around the continental United States, with sections for the Great Lakes, Hawaii, Alaska and the outlying American islands, including Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and South Pacific possessions.

The Coast Pilot is a government – which is to say, free – version of a cruising guide, giving detailed information on everything from anchorage areas to the telephone numbers for lift bridges and port captains. Pictures of harbor areas and channels give a bird's-eye view of approaches and anchorages. Details like the course and distances between major ports can be found within each section, and the information can always be referenced back to the applicable charts. A good technique for choosing the charts you might need in a new area is to review the information in the applicable Coast Pilot and then make your decisions based on how much detail is described there.

One of the most useful functions of the Coast Pilot is to provide expanded information about what is on the related charts. All U.S. charts bear at least one note that indicates which copy of the Coast Pilot is directly related to the chart. Most charts have a dozen notes or even more. Each note contains a bare description of the information that the chart maker feels is important and directs the user to the expanded information in the Coast Pilot. It could be related to navigational information, magnetic variation differences or even the location, size and, most important, hours of operation of military practice areas and bombing ranges. Boating near such an area is a mistake you only make once, so the utility of the Coast Pilot become clear.

Coast Pilots have been around for centuries and can still be purchased in a bound format from nautical bookstores and chandlerys, as well as from NOAA. However, like the other government publications, the Coast Pilots can be downloaded free, in whole or in part, directly from the Coast Guard website. To keep your copies up to date, corrections can be found in the Notice to Mariners.

What a fabulous time you missed if you were not in attendance. A group of ten or twelve members were in the Bay Area attending the installation of Linda Breninger as Commodore of PICYA. We are really proud of you Linda!

Saturday evening we tried something different, Beef & Chicken Fondue. I am happy to say it was a great success. I have heard from several who attended that after returning home, they have pulled their fondue pot out of the cupboard and have used it several times.

I wish to thank again my committee for all their hard work, sometimes duplicate work, on Friday evening. Our head count was MWYC 14, VWYC 12, by Saturday evening the count was MYWC 15, VWYC 19, great job everyone.

The committee was Ron, Jeff, Christy, Ben & Robin, Joe & Connie, Warren & Wendy, and yes, Cliff. Thank you all again for all your cooperation and hard work. I could not have pulled it off without each and every one of you. We even found time to play Mexican Train in the afternoon!
